St. Joseph School Families,

This school year is already flying by, and it is such a blessing to see the incredible spiritual and academic growth taking place in so many of our amazing students!

We are looking forward to welcoming each of you parents next week for our parent/teacher conferences. It is always so inspiring to see such dedicated parents come in and show their support, not only for their children, but for our teachers as well. Your encouragement and involvement mean so much!

We pray you all have a wonderful and blessed weekend!
